Procedural rules

Procedural rules are designed to provide a framework for well-ordered party meetings.

1. Annual General Meetings and conferences

An Animal Welfare Party Annual General Meeting (AGM) shall be held once per year. In addition, other meetings or Conferences may be held. A formal notice of the annual meeting shall be sent by the Secretary to all party members entitled to attend, at least 28 days prior to the meeting.

2. Ordinary meetings

Ordinary, or general, meetings shall be held on a regular basis. Notice of all meetings shall be sent out by an Animal Welfare Party Officer to all those entitled to attend, at least fourteen days prior to the meeting. Such notice shall as far as possible include an indication of the business to be transacted at the meeting. A record of attendance at meetings shall be kept.

3. Entitlement to attend

Only fully paid up members shall be entitled to attend non-Committee meetings, and to vote at such meetings. Members whose membership has lapsed for more than two months may attend such meetings but may not vote. Only those members who have been elected to the Committee of National Officers may attend and vote at meetings of the Committee, although other members may attend for all or part of Committee meetings at the invitation of the Animal Welfare Party Chair.

When an annual or special meeting is cancelled for any reason or is abandoned without completing the business on the agenda, such meeting must be reconvened in order for any necessary outstanding business to be transacted. Only those eligible to participate in the meeting as first convened, whether or not held, shall be entitled to participate in any further reconvened meeting.

4. Chair

The elected Chair shall preside at all meetings, except where otherwise provided for in the rules of Animal Welfare Party. In the absence of the Chair, the Vice-Chair shall preside, and in the absence of both, the Secretary or other officer shall call on those present to elect a member to take the Chair of the meeting. At the Annual General Meeting the Chair shall preside until a successor is elected, except where the Chair is not a duly elected and appointed Committee member; in which case the election of Chair shall be taken as the first item on the agenda. The new Chair shall take over the conduct of the meeting forthwith and proceed to the election of other officers and further business.

5. Party business

The prime function of party meetings is to provide delegates and members with the opportunity to participate in party activities through political debate and policy discussion; planning and reviewing projects and campaigns; the development of party organisation; the promotion of links with sympathetic individuals and bodies within the wider community, and social contact between members.

Nomination for representatives should be sought as widely from among party members as possible. Wherever practicable, any vacancies to be filled shall be advertised to all members as they arise, and any party member who has indicated willingness to accept nomination shall be considered for any post, unless otherwise stated in the rules.

Party business shall in general have precedence at all party meetings. As far as possible Committee members should deal with routine items of correspondence, finance and reports outside ordinary meetings, provided that the members at the meeting shall have the opportunity to question, amend and/or ratify any recommendations put to them.

6. Notice of motion

Original motions for the general meeting shall be accepted only from members entitled to attend and participate in the meeting, and must be received by the Secretary in writing not less than 10 days prior to the meeting for which they are intended. Motions for discussion shall be made available to those entitled to attend with the notice and agenda of the relevant meeting, except for emergency motions which must be sent in writing to the Secretary as soon as the nature of the emergency allows, before the commencement of the meeting. Emergency business may be accepted by the majority of the meeting on the recommendation of the Chair who shall interpret the term 'emergency' in a bona fide manner.

7. Discussion of motion

No motion shall be discussed at a meeting until it has been moved and seconded. Where a motion has been submitted by a party unit or organisation it must be moved by a delegate from that party unit or organisation. Speakers shall address the Chair and shall only speak once on any motion except by permission of the Chair, providing that the mover of a motion or an amendment may reply to the discussion without introducing new matter for debate; such reply shall close the discussion. No speaker shall be allowed more than five minutes, unless agreed by the meeting to be 'further heard' for a specified period.

Amendments to any motion may be moved and seconded from the floor of the meeting. Amendments shall be taken in order with one amendment being disposed of before another is moved. If an amendment is carried, the amended motion becomes a motion to which further amendments may be moved.

8. Motion to rescind resolution

No motion to rescind a resolution shall be valid within three months from the date on which the resolution was carried. Notice of rescinding motion must be given in writing and made available to those entitled to attend the relevant meeting.

9. Voting on motions

Voting shall be by show of hands except where the Constitution of the party provides for a ballot vote, or where decided otherwise. In the event of there being an equality of votes on any matter decided by a show of hands, the Chair may give an additional casting vote. If the Chair does not wish to give a casting vote, the motion is not carried.

10. Chair's ruling

Any breach of or question to the rules or standing orders may be raised by a member as a point of order. The Chair's ruling on any point arising from the rules or standing orders is final unless challenged by not less than four members; such a challenge shall be put to the meeting without discussion and shall only be carried with the support of two-thirds of the members present.

The Single Transferable Vote (STV) is a system of preferential voting designed to minimize wasted votes and provide proportional representation while ensuring that votes are explicitly expressed for individual candidates rather than for party lists. It achieves this by using multi-seat constituencies (voting districts) and by transferring all votes that would otherwise be wasted to other eligible candidates. STV initially allocates an elector's vote to his or her most preferred candidate and then, after candidates have been either elected or eliminated, transfers surplus or unused votes according to the voter's stated preferences.
